About Greyhounds . . .

Greyhounds have been favored for hunting, coursing, racing and as companions for humans since the times of ancient Egypt. Greek art and coins depict short-haired hounds virtually identical to modern Greyhounds, making it fairly certain that the breed has changed very little since 500 BC. To learn more about the fascinating history of Greyhounds, visit www.fastfriends.org.

Breed Characteristics

Greyhounds are friendly, affectionate dogs who thrive on attention and human companionship. They are often described as intelligent, sensitive, sweet, non-aggressive and unsurpassed as companion dogs. As a result of lifelong encounters with other Greyhounds on the racing circuit, these dogs socialize well and are generally tolerant of other family pets – including cats and small dogs.

Their temperament makes most Greyhounds wonderful around children. It must be remembered, however, that these are adult dogs who may have never been exposed to small children, with their quick movements and high voices. Children must be taught the proper respect for a Greyhound, as with any pet. We recommend reading the book, Childproofing Your Dog, available at Amazon.com.

There are 16 recognized Greyhound color combinations, including white, fawn, red, black, blue (gray) and many shades of brindle.

Greyhounds have virtually no body fat and little odor. In general, they are very clean and do not require a lot of grooming beyond nail trimming, gentle brushing, cleaning their teeth and occasional baths.

The average female Greyhound weighs between 50 and 70 pounds. The average male weighs between 65 and 80 pounds. Most retired racing Greyhounds stand between 26 and 30 inches tall.

Greyhounds are strictly indoor pets and cannot tolerate extreme heat or cold. They are short-haired and considered minimal shedders.

Racing Greyhounds are usually “retired” between the ages of two and five years. With proper care, their life span is 12 years or more. This long lifespan allows the Greyhound to become an essential part of a loving family for many years.

Adopted Greyhounds quickly become attached to their new owners and enjoy pleasing their new family members. Grey hounds love comfort as much as they love to run and will spend hours curled up on a soft bed. If allowed, most Greyhounds enjoy sleeping with their new owners – if not in the same bed, certainly in the same room.

Housebreaking is usually easy since they have been taught to keep their kennels clean. If a newly adopted Greyhound is let out frequently, if the owner has a fenced yard and if the dog is walked frequently for the first few days in a new home, he or she will soon learn to relieve him/herself outside and to keep its new home clean.

Unless in the house or in a securely fenced area, Greyhounds MUST ALWAYS BE KEPT ON A LEASH. There can be no exceptions to this rule. GPA/Louisville does not require adopters to have fenced yards but if you do not have a fenced yard, you must make a long-term commitment to walking your dog several times a day – rain or shine.

Greyhounds are sighthounds. They hunt by sight, not scent. For the last 6,000 years, they have been bred to hunt by outrunning their prey. With their excellent eyesight, any moving object (a small animal, a leaf, etc.) in the distance can trigger the dog's instinct to chase at speeds of up to 45 miles per hour. Oblivious to traffic and distance, this high-speed, frenzied chase can easily end in tragedy.

Adopting from GPA/Louisville

All dogs placed by the Louisville chapter of the Greyhound Pets of America are either spayed or neutered. Prior to placement, they receive thorough physical exams and will be up to date on their DHLPP booster shots and rabies inoculations. They will have been tested for heartworms and other common parasites. Their teeth and ears will be cleaned as well as a nail trim.

Prospective owners must complete an adoption application. After it is received, representatives of GPA/Louisville will visit the prospective family's home to talk about the breed and to answer questions. We do this to ensure that our Greyhounds go into homes where the entire family is eager to adopt and where the adopters are prepared to devote the time necessary for the dog to make the transition from professional athlete to family pet. We also try to establish a profile of the Greyhound best suited to the adoptive family's lifestyle and needs.

At the time of adoption, GPA-Louisville asks for a tax-deductible donation of $450 to recover some of our costs in retrieving the dogs from the track and providing veterinary care. Each dog comes with a GPA identification tag, a Martingale safety collar, and a matching leash. There is an opportunity for you to volunteer with the group and receive a $50 donation rebate.

GPA/Louisville adopters are invited to participate in our Facebook discussion group, meet and greet or the occasional walk in area parks. Just drop us an email at GPA@GPALouisville.org if you need more information.

To obtain an application form, please call the phone number listed below, visit one of our Meet & Greets at several local area petstores or download one from our website at www.GPALouisville.org, where you can also find our current Meet& Greet schedule.
